

CAN'T YOU SEE IT.

You say, Mr. Merchant, that you don't have to advertise because you have been in business so long that everybody knows you. Well, there is a certain mail order concern in Chicago that has probably been in business as long as you have, and The Sun will bet a nickel to a gingerbread that every person that reads those lines can call the name of that firm. And we will let further, that over half of your customers have catalogues of this firm in their homes right now. They see the value of advertising.

HEAD OF CHURCH URGES LOYALTY

President Joseph F. Smith Makes Earnest and Eloquent Plea to Latter-day Saints...Big Crowds Attend.

An eloquent plea for patriotic loyalty to the United States and its government, which has declared a state of war existing between this nation and Germany, was voiced by President Joseph F. Smith and struck the keynote for subsequent speakers, including Apostle H. L. Long and C. W. Peacock of the first presidency, at last Friday's opening sessions of the eight days' annual conference of the church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in the tabernacle.

More than twelve thousand persons attended the first session, beginning at 10 a.m., constituting what is expected to be a new record in the history of the conference. Even a larger throng was present at the afternoon services. The great auditorium was packed. Many stood in the side aisles and the doorways were almost jammed. With few exceptions all the authorities of the church were present.

As the session opened members of stake and ward choirs, by request, broke into the tabernacle choir section. Both choir and congregation, under the leadership of Prof. A. G. Land, sang the hymns. Prof. J. J. McClellan was at the organ.

SWEET BY PATRIOTISM.

The great audience was brought to act in a wave of patriotism when a medley of national airs, played on the organ, reached its climax with "The Star Spangled Banner." After the opening hymns, "Come, Come, Ye Saints," and "Say What is Truth," sung by Elder Edward H. Anderson, President Smith launched directly into the principal theme of his address. President Smith said:

"In this church there is no distinction of nationalities. We are all members of the church and true American citizens. Those who come to us from lands abroad as converts also come with the full intention of becoming loyal citizens."

"We are living in critical times. From what is visible today, none can foretell what will occur tomorrow. But we need not be anxious, concerned about this. For if we do our duty as members of the church, as honorable men and women, and as citizens of this great land, we need not fear particularly what tomorrow may bring forth."

"I want to say to all Latter-day Saints who enlist that when they become soldiers they must not forget that they are also soldiers of the cross—ministers of life, not of destruction and death—defending the just liberties of mankind. May I not exhort them to maintain above all things the spirit of humanity, love and peace-making, and not to demolish the principles we believe in—peace and good will toward all mankind."

Most Do Their Duty.

"Let Utah soldiers be men of honor, let them do their duty with an example to the good aimed at—the betterment of the world—and not with baseness desire to destroy. If we can help the oppressed, aid the dependent and suffering, uplift and ameliorate the conditions of mankind, it is an essential part of our religion to do so."

President Smith declared the Mormon church organization to be perfect. In case of critical conditions, he said, its leaders could send forth a call for aid that would reach into the four corners of the world, bringing succor on the morrow without costs. Every dime contributed to aid the oppressed, needy and suffering persons, he asserted, would reach those for whom it was intended.

He exhorted members to teach their children to honor and obey the laws of God and the United States and to honor and support those who stand at the helm of both church and country with true American loyalty.

"We have need of a careful course of penitence, economy and industry," he declared, "with reference to the necessities of life. We have had a long winter, extending far into the beginning of spring. We may have a very short period for the raising of crops and we should realize that we are depending on the soil."

Economy Is Urged.

"I understand the authorities at Washington have asked the Utah Agricultural college to prevail upon the people of Utah to economize, to provide to save and to store up supplies and even to assemble the stores of war if actual warfare should come."

Apparently referring to the German people, though not naming them, President Smith declared:

"We must not condemn them. The people are innocent. It is their leaders, those who do injustice and oppress them, who are to blame."

President Smith for a moment became into a personal testimony as

UTAH FUEL COMPANY WILL SPEND LARGE SUM FOR IMPROVEMENTS

The Utah Fuel company is going to coal industry. As much of the money spent something like two hundred thousand dollars in improvements in Carbon county the coming year, according to General Superintendent J. R. Thompson of Castle Gate, who with A. C. Watts of the Denver offices, was in Price yesterday, when this announcement was made by Superintendent Thompson. Work is to begin as soon as conditions will permit and men and material can be gotten. Plans approved by General Manager A. H. Tracy now being in the hands of Mr. Watts. This work is to be done with the general policy of the company to make things as pleasant as possible for those who work in the mines.

H. J. World appeared before the board and asked that the company do something for A. W. Mynor who had left the poor house and was now at World's home. He was granted $10 per month from April 1st.

A motion by Commissioner Oathout that all cattle houses of the county pay a license of $10.00 per month as provided by ordinance was carried.

Henry A. Mathias, J. P. Price, Frank Orton, H. P. McAllister and Mat Warner, representing about thirty others, met with the board and asked for a bridge across Price River on the road to Gordon Creek and Tidwell's branch. This was referred to a committee of three to be appointed out of this number and with F. R. Dunlevy for the county to make estimates and report at next meeting of the committee.

A communication was read to the commissioners asking if they would consider a proposition to have the county bonds audited for the past three years. This was turned down by all members voting on it.

Mrs. Agnes Stuker, a widow of Keenworth, was allowed $10.00 per month. Mrs. Margaret Ward was allowed a like amount for the care of the Whitten children. Mrs. Christina Bishop was allowed $12.50 per month. She lives at Castle Gate.

The reports of the recorder, auditor and clerk for the month of March was approved. It was moved that the poor house close down April 26th and that a warrant for $50.00 be drawn in payment of Mrs. Allens salary for April.

The matter of locking after the roads of the county was appointed as follows: Commissioner Dryer to look after roads from Blue Cut south and east; Commissioner Hamilton to look after roads from Blue Cut north and west; Commissioner Oathout to look after all roads from county line of Utah county to Seibert, Winter Quarters and Clear Creek.

Liquor licenses were granted to Barney Blanco at Keenworth, J. E. Anderson at Winter Quarters and Clear Creek. A. P. Wehl was appointed deputy sheriff at Standardville.

Samuel Naylor was appointed registrar of vital statistics at Mountain Home on recommendation of Dr. A. W. Dow and T. H. Beatty.

James Liddell was allowed an additional $5.00 in merchandise for James dressings for the time being.

After allowing a number of bills the commissioners adjourned, subject to call of A. Dryer.

Italy A. Britain and Edna plate, both of Coleman, Colo., were married Saturday at the Methodist parsonage by Rev. H. T. Zeiders.

BIG PARADE AND DEMONSTRATION

Bon Fires, Torch Light Procession and Big Time By Price Citizens...Program Held In the High School.

It is night, were all that was required to instill patriotism, all that was needed Thursday night of last week was a glimpse—a fleeting glimpse—of that parade. If music could be inspiring, all that was needed was a breath of air to wail the strains of the Price Concert band to one's ear. If anyone were to question the stand that the people of the "Biggest Little City on Earth" took—whether as citizens they were behind the president or not—that question was answered beyond the slightest possibility of a doubt in the demonstration. For the people caught sight of the parade, they heard the strains of the band, and then they fell in line, marched to the high school, and heard one of the best programs ever rendered in Eastern Utah.

Promptly at 7 o'clock the air was split by the thunderous salute to Old Glory, conducted by A. J. Grimes, and then the band commenced to play march-had through Main street to the public school campus where a bonfire, lighting every rock for blocks around, was burning. The student body of the Carbon County High school was out en masse, as was also the public school. And there, while the band played patriotic airs, the children and parents formed line.

Led by the local recruiting officer, Captain O'Brien, who carried a large silver flag, and the band, which was escorted by the local boy scouts in their khaki uniforms, the column marched south to the court house and then turned east to Eighth street, turning north there toward the high school. Every boy carried a lighted torch, and every girl a flag. To look along the line of march was to see a moving path of fire, illuminating the hundreds of flags that were visible everywhere.

A greater demonstration, a greater show of enthusiasm, had never been exhibited in Price.

The roof of the high school building was decorated with flags and colored lights, while just in front, on the bank of the canal, a second bonfire pointed the way. As the procession crossed the canal bridge, another sight that brought forth cheers came into view. Above the gate posts on the top of the terrace, two old, tattered and worn flags were draped. Now and then they fluttered fitfully, displaying large rents in the faded stripes. Above these flags, just high enough to allow the people to march under, was a sign with this wording:

"Battle Flags of War With Spots that Never Touched the Ground."

The auditorium was packed to capacity, the crowd had to find seats in the windows, on the floor, and still all that wanted to come in could not. Fully eight hundred people found seats, leaving standing up in the halls over two hundred who could not get in. The decorations inside were of flags—flags everywhere, on the walls, the ceiling and the stage. Hanging from the curtain were the pictures of George Washington, Abraham Lincoln and Woodrow Wilson draped with bunting.

Just in front of the speaker's stand was a huge American eagle carrying in its beak the national colors. On either side of the stage were stacked the rifles of the Price Gun club, and the whole stage was lighted with red, white and blue lights.

C. H. Marqusee called the meeting to order and introduced as chairman Major A. W. Hoyle, who told what the meeting was for—not a celebration because war had been declared—but a meeting to show that the people of Price and Carbon county were loyal to the government and President Wilson, and that they would back him to the very last. This program was then rendered.

Band selection, Price Concert band, Invocation, Rev. H. T. Zeiders.

"America," audience, solo, "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean," Lora Harmon.

Address, C. B. Price.

Concert solo, Arnold Burgher.

"Song, The Sword of Bunker Hill," L. A. Lauber.

Reading, "Old Glory," "A Man Without a Country," "Love of Country," Miss Issie Scott.

Band selection, Price Concert band.

Pledge to the Flag, audience.

Music, Seymour Grove.

Band.

The program, from beginning to end was the most inspiring and patriotic that has ever been heard in Price. Great credit is due the committee that planned it—C. H. Marqusee, George A. Wootten, Prof. J. G. Gilmer, A. J. Lee, W. F. Olson, Lee Whitmore and Arnold Burgher.

Citizens of Price have given their answer. They stand behind their government. They are a willing part of a huge body of people that will give all that "this government, of the people, for the people, by the people, shall not perish from the earth."

PATRIOTIC DEMONSTRATION TO BE HELD AT WELLINGTON

STORRS MAKES APPOINTMENTS

Former Sheriff Henry Lands Job as Outside Guard.

Dr. L. F. Hummer for prison physician, Mrs. George A. Storrs for prison matron, and Fred O. Storrs, son of Warden A. Storrs, for commissary clerk were among the appointments of the warden approved by the state board of corrections at a session at the prison Tuesday. The board also decided to adopt a new policy with reference to the distribution of surplus products of the prison reservation. Selling such surplus in the future to the commission houses of Salt Lake City rather than direct to state officials and prison employees to whose homes such surplus has gone in the past.

Dr. Hummer, now a member of the staff at Holy Cross hospital, and a practitioner in Salt Lake City for several years, succeeds Dr. H. Z. Land, who has been prison physician for several years. Mrs. Storrs succeeds Mrs. Arthur Pratt, wife of the former warden, and F. O. Storrs succeeds H. C. Taggart, who resigned at the same time as did Warden Pratt. Mr. Taggart himself was the successor of the late Arthur Pratt, Jr.

Other appointments confirmed Tuesday were those of A. G. Dyer, long an employee of the prison, as deputy warden, succeeding A. C. Ure; Wilford Giles, former chief of police at Provo, to be superintendent of the prison farm; and W. K. Henry, former sheriff of Carbon, and E. F. Carpenter from the Uintah country, as outside guards.

SENIOR DAY OBSERVED.

New Class Pins Here for the Carbon County High.

This (Friday) evening the seniors of the Carbon County High School will give a grand ball. This is "Senior Day," and the outgoing class is preparing "salutes" for every hour. The celebration is in honor of the arrival of the class pins. They are the most uniquely designed and beautifully shaped pins that have been seen in Price. Each pin is of Indian gold, an abalone C in the center of which is a raised white gold '7'. The C itself is studded with twelve sparkling rubies red and white. The best music in Price thus carrying out the class colors, is engaged for the dance, and special decorations and refreshments are being planned. Those who attended the junior prom of last year will know what kind of a time the class can give.

Application to appropriate 4½ acres and feet of water from Miller Creek, has been made to the state engineer by Abe Powell, S. J. Powell and Pearl Powell, of Price, to irrigate 150 acres of land in that vicinity.

Notice To Clean Up.

Notice is hereby given that rubbish, garbage, tin cans, etc. must be cleaned up by May 1, 1917, when an inspection will be made. Violators will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.
